Introduction of Program

At present, TU has emphasized research as a fundamental component of its revised curriculum, making research methodology courses mandatory at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels. These changes aim to shift from a traditional, factory-like model of teaching to a transformative, research-based approach. University faculties are expected to deepen their knowledge and skills not only through classroom instruction but also by engaging in research, training, and publications.

Both TU and UGC underscore research as essential for teacher professional development, promotion of teachers, and quality assurance. High quality education hinges on well-prepared, research competent teachers. Students benefit more when teachers are professionals with sound theoretical and practical expertise in research and scholarly publications. Moreover, effective supervision of student projects and theses hinges on the research knowledge and skills of the faculty.

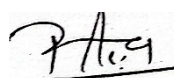

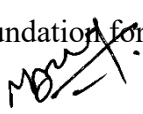

To be specific, SMC and other community campuses face some common challenges: While a few teachers are involved in research and publications of journal articles, the majority of them have limited or no experience in research and academic publications. Some teachers have never studied the research methodology courses and written theses in their academic life. Consequently, many lack the ability to effectively review different types of literature, face difficulties navigating vast amounts of academic literature, and are unable to critically assess the relevance and quality of related literature. In research, a comprehensive review of literature is crucial as it enables researchers to understand the existing knowledge base, identify gaps, and establish the foundation for their studies. Therefore, this program is designed to equip participants with the necessary skills and methodologies to conduct effective literature reviews.

Background of Program

A comprehensive three-day workshop titled "Workshop on Methods of Reviewing Literature in Research" was successfully conducted at Sukuna Multiple Campus from Baisakh 26-28, 2082. The program was designed to enhance in participants with the necessary skills and methodologies to conduct effective literature reviews. The workshop featured a diverse range of sessions covering a comprehensive review of literature is crucial as it enables researchers to understand the existing knowledge base, identify gaps, and establish the foundation for their studies.

Objectives

Arjun Raj Adhikari
Campus Chief

The specific objectives of the program were as follows:

- i. To enhance teachers' understandings of the various types, purposes, and steps involved in conducting literature reviews.
- ii. To provide practical skills and methods or techniques for conducting, organizing, and synthesizing literature reviews effectively.
- iii. To strengthen teachers' abilities to critically access, refine, and enhance their literature review skills for academic research and publication.

Methodology

As mentioned in the proposal, we included all the teaching faculties and also invited the participants from 7 neighboring public campuses. whose details are given below:

Table 1

No. of Participants

Name of College	No of Participants
Sukuna Multiple Campus, Morang	37
Saptakoshi Multiple Campus, Morang	2

Urlabari Multiple Campus	2
Janata Campus ,Rangeli,Morang	2
Damak Multiple Campus, Jhapa	2
Kankai Multiple Campus, Surunga, Jhapa	2
Hile Campus	1
Belbali Multiple Campus	2
Total	50

Most of the teachers from our institution attended the program, however, only 7 neighboring campuses out of 11 could participate.

The sessions included interactive classroom sessions with ICT interventions, thematic lectures and demonstrations, group exercises, and participants' presentations.

Day wise Activities

This section presents the day-wise activities conducted by different facilitators.

Day One:

Arjun Raj Adhikari
Campus Chief

Registration and Program Inauguration (10:00-10:30 AM)

The Training Unit organized a formal 30-minute opening ceremony to launch the comprehensive literature review workshop. This inaugural session included participant registration, program overview presentation, and welcome addresses from institutional representatives. The ceremony established the academic tone for the three-day intensive training program and provided participants with essential program materials and schedules. Administrative formalities were efficiently completed, ensuring smooth program execution and proper documentation of attendees.

Literature Review Fundamentals (10:30 AM-12:00 PM)

Arjun Raj Adhikari
Campus Chief

Dr. Dibya Raj Dahal delivered a foundational 90-minute session addressing the core concepts of literature review methodology. This comprehensive introduction covered the essential questions of what constitutes a literature review, why it is crucial for academic research, and how to approach the review process systematically. Participants gained understanding of literature review purposes, including knowledge synthesis, research gap identification, and theoretical framework development. The session established fundamental concepts that would serve as building blocks for subsequent advanced training modules.

Literature Review Approaches and Decision-Making (1:00-2:30 PM)

Following the lunch break, Mr. Shankar Dewan conducted a 90-minute workshop focusing on different approaches to literature reviews and decision-making frameworks. This session equipped participants with analytical tools to determine appropriate review methodologies based on research objectives and disciplinary requirements. Attendees learned to distinguish between systematic reviews, narrative reviews, and meta-analyses, understanding when each approach is most suitable. The workshop emphasized strategic thinking in literature review planning and methodology selection.

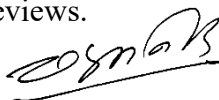

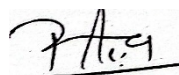

General Introduction to Literature Review Practice (2:35-4:05 PM)

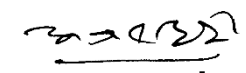

Dr. Binod Luitel provided an introduction to literature review practices and conventions. This session bridged theoretical understanding with practical application, covering standard procedures, common challenges, and quality indicators in literature review writing. Participants learned about organizational structures, writing styles, and academic standards expected in scholarly literature reviews. The session included examples from various disciplines and demonstrated how literature reviews vary across different academic fields while maintaining core methodological principles.

Comprehensive Literature Review Process (4:10-5:40 PM)

Dr. Binod Luitel concluded the day with an intensive 90-minute session covering the complete literature review process from initial collection to final write-up. This practical workshop addressed the entire workflow, including source collection strategies, annotated bibliography development, information processing techniques, and structured writing approaches. Participants learned when literature reviews are essential for research projects and how to integrate review findings with original research objectives. The session provided hands-on guidance for managing large volumes of literature and transforming collected information into coherent, scholarly reviews.

Day Two

Arjun Raj Adhikari
Campus Chief

Academic Vocabulary and Phraseology Session (10:00-11:30 AM)

Dr. Binod Luitel conducted a comprehensive 90-minute session focusing on essential academic writing skills. This foundational workshop covered specialized terminology, formal language structures, and phraseology required for scholarly publications. Participants learned proper citation methods, academic discourse conventions, and the sophisticated vocabulary necessary for literature reviews. The session emphasized the importance of precise language in research writing and provided practical examples of academic expressions commonly used in scholarly articles.

Research-Based Sharing Session (12:30-2:00 PM)

Following the lunch break, Dr. Binod Luitel facilitated an interactive 90-minute session on research methodologies and knowledge sharing. This segment moved beyond theoretical concepts to practical application, encouraging participants to engage in collaborative learning and evidence-based discussions. The session focused on developing systematic approaches to research, emphasizing the importance of peer collaboration and the sharing of research findings within academic communities.

Article Review Workshop (2:00-3:30 PM)

Ushakiran Wagle led a hands-on activities dedicated to critically evaluating published academic articles. This 90-minute workshop developed participants' analytical skills in assessing research quality, identifying methodology strengths and weaknesses, and recognizing research gaps in existing literature. Attendees practiced systematic approaches to literature review, learning to synthesize information from multiple sources and evaluate the credibility and relevance of published research.

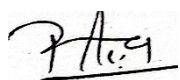

Nepali Literature Review Practice (3:45-5:15 PM)

The final session, conducted by Dr. Dipak Neupane, addressed the unique challenges of academic writing in the Nepali language. This 90-minute workshop provided practical exercises in conducting literature reviews using Nepali terminology and academic conventions. The session bridged international academic standards with local linguistic and cultural contexts, enabling participants to effectively communicate research findings in their native language while maintaining scholarly rigor and academic integrity.

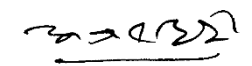

Day Three

Critical Literature Review Session (7:30-9:00 AM)

Mr. Gunaraj Nepal conducted an intensive 90-minute session focusing on advanced critical analysis of academic literature. This workshop went beyond basic review techniques to develop sophisticated evaluation skills, teaching participants how to identify theoretical frameworks, assess methodological rigor, and critically examine research conclusions. Attendees learned to question assumptions, evaluate evidence quality, and develop independent analytical perspectives when reviewing scholarly publications. The session emphasized the importance of maintaining objectivity while conducting thorough critical assessments.

Arjun Raj Adhikari
Campus Chief

Digital Research Tools Workshop (9:00-10:30 AM)

Mr. Shankar Dewan led a practical 90-minute training session on utilizing search engines and digital databases for comprehensive literature reviews. This technology-focused workshop covered advanced search strategies, Boolean operators, and specialized academic databases. Participants learned to navigate multiple search platforms effectively, develop targeted search queries, and utilize filters to refine results. The session included hands-on practice with various academic search engines and demonstrated how to access peer-reviewed sources efficiently.

Dissertation Literature Review Session (11:30 AM-1:00 PM)

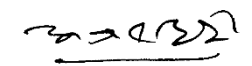

Following the lunch break, Ganesh Prasad Dahal conducted a specialized 90-minute workshop focusing on literature reviews within dissertation contexts. This session addressed the unique requirements and challenges of conducting comprehensive literature reviews for thesis and dissertation projects. Participants learned about structuring extensive reviews, maintaining coherence across large bodies of literature, and integrating review findings with original research objectives. The workshop emphasized the strategic role of literature reviews in establishing research foundations and identifying significant knowledge gaps.

Reference Management and Citation Workshop (1:00-2:30 PM)

Nara Prasad (NP) Bhandari facilitated a crucial 90-minute session on technical aspects of research documentation. This practical workshop introduced participants to reference management software, proper citation formats, and systematic approaches to organizing research sources. Attendees learned to use digital tools for tracking references, generating bibliographies, and maintaining consistent citation styles across different academic formats. The session covered both manual citation techniques and automated reference management systems.

Campus Chief

Closing and Certification Ceremony (2:30-3:00 PM)

The program concluded with a formal 30-minute closing ceremony featuring certificate distribution and final remarks. This session provided participants with official recognition of their completed training and offered opportunities for feedback collection. The ceremony celebrated the intensive three-day learning journey and acknowledged the commitment of both participants and facilitators. Final guidance was provided regarding the practical application of acquired skills in future research endeavors.

Achievements and Outcomes

The three-day training session was very fruitful and had the following outcomes:

- i. Participants gained in-depth knowledge of literature review techniques.
- ii. Attendees learned to use reference management tools for proper citation.
- iii. Improved ability to critically review literature.
- iv. Enhanced skills in using search engines for academic research.
- v. Practical experience in writing different types of literature reviews.

Future perspectives and challenges

The report highlights the importance of literature review training for enhancing research capabilities among faculty members. Looking at the future perspectives, the initiative aims to strengthen academic research quality, promote better supervision of student projects, and encourage scholarly publications. Continuous workshops like these could lead to an overall improvement in research methodologies, benefiting both faculty and students.

The key challenges related to literature review for faculty members are given below:

- a) Limited Research Experience.
- b) Difficulty in Evaluating Academic Literature.
- c) Lack of Research Methodology Knowledge.
- d) Need for Better Citation and Reference Management.

Conclusion and Recommendation

The training program workshop provided valuable insights into literature reviews, covering theoretical concepts and practical applications. With expert facilitation, participants gained skills to efficiently review and synthesize information for academic research. To sum up, the training was fruitful and supporting to the overall participants. Such refreshment programs are recommended for writing research.

Acknowledgement

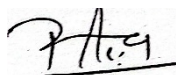

First and foremost, we would like to express our gratitude to the University Grants Commission, for the funding support. The project acceptance has made it easier for us to organize the program efficiently. Likewise, we are equally grateful to the external facilitator Prof. Dr. Binod Luitel for his invaluable engagement in the program to make the three-day program successful.

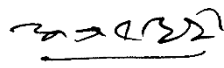

Similarly, we can't forget our internal facilitators Dr Dibya Raj Dahal, Shankar Dewan, Ushakiran Wagle, Deepak Prasad Neupane for the fruitful and rigorous session delivery in all three days.

We are immensely indebted to the campus chief Mr. Arjun Raj Adhikari for the encouragement and support. Similarly, we thank Mr. Ganesh Prasad Dahal, Mr. Navaraj Koirala, Mr. Yubraj Subedi for the management of training. Last but not the least, we can't stop appreciating the hard work of Chandra Mani Rai, coordinator of the training unit. Likewise, we thank Nara Prasad Bhandari, Guna Raj Nepal, Maya Dewan and Ramesh Khatiwada for the effective event management and report writing.

Feedback from participants

Arjun Raj Adhikari
Campus Chief

We asked participants to provide oral and written feedback. The major highlights on feedback were given based on the takeaways from the program, management of the program and the things to be improved. Participants representing neighboring campuses and participants from our campus were requested to provide feedback. All the participants submitted written reflections about the takeaways.
